A black and white illustration. On the left, a large, multi-story building with many windows and balconies, possibly a traditional East Asian structure, is partially visible. A person is sitting in a small boat on a river or canal in the foreground, looking towards the right. The background shows a hazy, distant landscape with some structures and a body of water. The text "STORY BY INWAN YOUN" is written in a serif font across the upper middle part of the image.
